THE UNHAPPY SCHOOL BOY

Once upon a time, there lived a boy named Tom. Tom was a very playful who was loved his parents and little sister so much. Also, I am liked going to school every day because his mother would always pack him delicious breakfast consisting of bread, sausages and eggs. Tom enjoyed sharing them with his friends at school. Every break time, Tom would first have breakfast with his friends and then they would go out to play football. But one day. Tom did not go outside to play with friends and they wondered what could be the problem, so they went back to the classroom to look for him. They found him crying and asked what the problem was but Tom kept crying and crying until one of the friends went to call the class teacher to intervene.

Upon inquiring what the problem was, Tom just wailed the more and when he had calmed down, he told his class teacher that someone had eaten his breakfast. The teacher called other students back to the classroom to ask who had eaten tom’s breakfast. One by one they opened their containers to check. It turned out the class didn't steal his breakfast for one student from the other class came and reported that he saw one girl checking Tom's bag. They asked her and she confessed having stolen Tom's escorts. The girl received three strokes of the cane and also Apologized for stealing Tom's eats but Tom could not be happy again since that day. He detested going to school since the incident and his parents tried to persuade him to go, he went but could not be happy like before.
